

Aktiebolaget Alvenius Industrier's

Cookies Policy

Last updated 18/01/2021

We use cookies on our website, alvenius.com. A cookie is a small data file that the website you are visiting requests to save on your computer, tablet or mobile phone.

About cookies

There are two types of cookie; persistent cookies and session cookies. We use both persistent and session cookies on Alvenius' website. Session cookies are stored temporarily when you visit and browse our website. Once you close the browser, all session cookies are deleted. Persistent cookies remain on the computer as a file for a certain period of time until they are deleted by you, the user, or the server that sent them.

Cookies can also be divided into first-party and third-party cookies. First-party cookies are set by the owner of a website (in this case alvenius.com) and third-party cookies are set by another website. We only use first-party cookies on Alvenius' website.

The cookies we use on our website

When you use the website, "functionality" cookies that do not require your consent are placed on your device. The following functionality cookies are used.

| Name of cookie | Type of cookie and purpose   | Storage period | Disclosure to third parties |
|----------------|--|----------------|-----------------------------|
| exp_csrf_token | A security cookie for internal security purposes to prevent spam, etc. | 2 hours        | No                          |

|                             |   |                              |    |
|-----------------------------|---|------------------------------|----|
| exp_last_visit              | Date that the user last visited the site      | 1 year                       | No |
| exp_tracker                 | To know which page the user is on.            | Duration of time on the page | No |
| exp_last activity           | To know the last link clicked on by the user. | 1 year                       | No |
| exp_publisher_tracker       | To know which page the user is on.            | Duration of time on the page | No |
| exp_publisher_site_language | To know which language the user has selected. | 1 month                      | No |

Responsibility for personal data

Alvenius is responsible for placing cookies on the website and is the data controller responsible for processing your personal data that is collected via cookies when you visit alvenius.com.

For more information about our processing of personal data through the use of cookies, please see our Privacy Policy.

Deletion of cookies

When you visit our website, you can choose to opt out of some types of cookies. You can also withdraw your consent at any time. You can block the use of certain cookies by disallowing them in your browser settings. If you do so, your browser will automatically deny storage of these cookies or inform you each time a website (such as ours) requests to store a cookie. After visiting the website, you can check and delete the persistent cookies that have been stored on your browser. To make it easier for you to identify our cookies, we have indicated the name of each cookie in the tables above.

If you are not happy about how we use cookies

If you would like more information about cookies, permitted use of cookies or want to make a complaint about our use of cookies, you can contact the supervisory authority for electronic communications. The supervisory authority in Sweden is the Swedish Post and Telecom Authority (www.pts.se).